your ideas are guesses

BEFORE YOU BRAINSTORM

You sit down to brainstorm this week's posts. That's already the wrong first step. Here is what to ask first.

just_ guessing

WHY IT FAILS

Brainstorming titles first means you're guessing. You pick what sounds good to you, not what your buyer wants to hear about.

ask the market

THE RIGHT QUESTION

Ask what your buyer searches for and argues about.
Comments, sales calls and forums already tell you the topics.

their words

MAP IT

Write down their language, problems, tools and outcomes. Then use their exact words in your hooks, not yours.

research first

THE FIX

Research first, then pick the topics. Save this for your next planning session.
